THE PETRIFIED WOMAN

A Scientific and Educational Exhibit

SPECIMEN FOUND IN CALIFORNIA

This Remarkable Specimen is Now on Exhibition in This City, Next to Hotel Clegg, Opposite Depot.

Our citizens will have an opportunity this week, never before offered in this community, of viewing a wonderful specimen of human petrification, a sight worth coming miles to see.

Contrary to the usual, it is not a show or museum, but purely a scientific and educational exhibit conducted by ladies, who come to our city highly endorsed. They have certificates of thousands of physicians, scientists and geologists. Also chemical and microscopical examinations which attest to the body's genuineness.

The specimen was found in California. The fine features, nose, lips, all the delicate facial lines, high arched instep and small form denote that she was a white woman of Spanish descent and of unusual beauty, intelligence and gentle ancestry.

The ladies had this wonderful attraction at the state fair at Raleigh; also at Winston, where it won the unanimous praise of all and attracted unusual attention.

Let our citizens show their appreciation of a meritorious exhibit by visiting the room where the great wonder is on view. Lady and gentlemen visitors will find themselves agreeably entertained with a descriptive lecture. Special pains are taken to thoroughly explain the specimen to all.

The intention has been announced of extending complimentary to our local doctors to call and examine the wonderful petrification.

TARHEEL GRATITUDE.

How North Carolina Treats the Memory of Her Great Men.

A gentleman from Warren county says the graves of "North Carolina's famous Commoner," Nat Macon, is unmarked, save by a large pile of flint stones. The grave is in a ploughed field and the stones slip down. Kind hands toss them back and an admirer adds a few.

An aged negro who says he was at Macon's funeral says 1,000 people were there and that a big dinner was served.

At the burial of General Hawkins, half a century or more ago, there was meat and strink for an immense crowd, provision being made for this feast in his will, which his relict carried out to the letter.—Charlotte Observer.

The Post's Declaration.

Special to the Charlotte Observer from Raleigh says:

Editor Furman, of the Morning Post will in his salutatory tomorrow say that the paper will be Democratic in politics and policy; that all the great principles of the party were never more seriously threatened than at present; that the Anglo-Saxon must rule in North Carolina; to the Democratic party alone can the people look for such rule, that there is and should be no room for class distinctions or contentions in North Carolina. The editorial says further: "We shall appeal to all good people, regardless of differences on questions of mere policy to unite with the democratic party in restoring intelligent and reputable government in the State and the counties and a kinder feeling among the people, the one toward the other." It is expressly stated that the Post is not an "ax-grinding business."

Injured in a Collision.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Rotterdam, Dec. 1.—British steamer Durango has arrived here slightly damaged and with her forepeak full of water, as a result of the collision with the German steamer Ordonera. The latter was sunk; no lives lost.

Eight Years in the Penitentiary.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 30.—Eugene Moore, ex-auditor of the state, was sentenced by Judge Cornish today to 8 years in the penitentiary, for the embezzlement of insurance fees, amounting to $23,000.

KILLED IN HIS CAB.

Frank B. Smith Meets Death on The Atlantic and Danville.

B. N. Smith of this place received a telegram last night announcing that his son Frank B. Smith had been killed yesterday afternoon on the Atlantic & Danville railroad. Mr. Smith who was formerly an engineer had been reduced by a general order to fireman and it was while serving in that capacity that he met his death.

Telegram received from Mrs. Smith this morning, by Fireman Smith's father, says she will leave West Norfolk tomorrow morning at 9:50 with the body which will be buried here. Arrangements have not yet been perfected as to time.

Young Smith had been married only some six months and his body was taken to his home in West Norfolk. The Danville Register says of the disaster:

One of the most disastrous wrecks in the history of the Atlantic & Danville railway occurred some time after noon yesterday, a short distance east of Gill's station, about eighty-five miles down the road. The engine of passenger train No. 1, due in Danville at 5:25 p. m., together with two coaches left the track, and in the wreck of iron and wood that resulted, Engineer James Luter and Fireman Frank B. Smith were instantly killed. Baggage-master Lewis and Mail Agent J. M. Burfoot were also injured. The remainder of the crew and the passengers fortunately escaped harm.

There is a high embankment at the scene of the accident, and the engine followed by the combination baggage and mail coach and second class passenger coach, toppled over the declivity. The engine fell entirely over on its side, and the men in the cab met almost instant death. The baggage master and the mail agent were only slightly injured. The rear passenger coach remained on the track. An inspection of the track disclosed the cause of the disaster to be the spreading of the rails at the point the train left the track.

SALISBURY'S STREET RAILWAY.

The Charter is Granted for a Term of 65 Years.

A Salisbury special to the Charlotte Observer says: At their meeting last night the city aldermen granted a franchise to the Salisbury Street Railway and Electric Company. The conditions of the franchise are as follows: Work must be begun on the electric line by April 1st, 1898; the line must be completed so as to carry passengers and freight by November 29th 1898, and must extend from Chestnut Hill to Spencer. The franchise shall revert to the city if the company shall suspend operation for a period of one year. It is further provided that the company shall keep the road bed in good repair, both during and after the construction of the line. In granting the franchise the city disclaims all liability for damages. The application is made a part of this contract. Travel shall not be obstructed by the railway. The charter is granted for 65 years from November 29, 1897.

THE ICE-BOUND WHALERS

Have Food and Are Not Likely to Starve Soon.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 1.—Frank Wyckersham, a sailor, who has returned from an eight month's trip to the Arctic ocean, says the cutter Bear was in five miles of the wrecked whaler Navarch when the sailors of that vessel froze to death.

He does not think the Bear can reach the other whalers this winter, but says the men are not suffering through want of food and will be safe until the ice breaks up in the spring. Should the vessels be crushed the men can reach the shore.

Evangelist Lee in Raleigh.

A Raleigh correspondent says of Evangelist Lee's meeting in Raleigh: Only 60 people were present at the anti-saloon rally at the Academy of Music tonight. Evangelist Lee said many who signed failed to attend. He handled Jim Young, colored, without gloves. Young is editor of the negro organ, a leading Baptist, fertilizer department clerk and expects to be postmaster. Lee said that last Sunday Young had advised his congregation not to participate in the anti-saloon movement, as there was politics in it.

He Made Coffins For Two.

Topoka, Kan., Nov. 30.—William Gage, a carpenter of Great Bend, who astonished people last winter by making two coffins, one for his wife and the other for his daughter-in-law, both of whom were not expected to live, was yesterday married to the daughter-in-law, Jessie Gage.

Last spring Mr. Gage's wife died and was buried in the coffin prepared for her. The daughter-in-law recovered, and her marriage to Gage has stirred up the people to fever heat and Gage will leave the State.

THE PORTE MUST PONY UP

Uncle Sam After The Turk With A Sharp Stick.

MINING BROKERS ARE JAILED.

Henry George's Son Flarries--Put Additional Tax on Beer Says Walker--Automatic Breaks.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Constantinople, Dec. 1.—United States Minister Angell has renewed the demand of the United States for an indemnity from the Turkish government for the pillage of American Missions at Kharput Marash Haskonj in Armenia. The Porte denies all responsibility for the pillage on the ground that the government acted under the stress of unavoidable circumstances. Minister Angell however insists upon the government's responsibility as the Turkish troops and gendarmes participated in the outrages.

SHARP SWINDLERS ARRESTED.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Boston, Dec. 1.—S. Hamilton Gylot William H. Abbott and Francis H. Appleton leading mining brokers of this city were arrested and released on $15,000 bail each. The charge against them was that of getting $10,500 from Mrs. Julia French by conspiracy. They gave her forty thousand shares in mining stocks which she claims are worthless. By the advice of counsel the brokers refuse to make any explanation of the deal.

MARRIES TOMORROW.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The son of Henry George, the famous single taxer who recently died, arrived here today. He will marry Miss Marie Hitch tomorrow.

THE DINGLEY DEFICIT.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Representative Walker, a republican of Massachusetts, chairman of the banking and currency committee when asked today what he thought had better be done with the Dingley deficit said: "I would put another dollar tax on beer; that it what I should favor doing."

AS TO AUTOMATIC COUPLERS.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today heard the application made by the railway company for the extension of the time during which it may comply with the law requiring cars and locomotives to be fitted with automatic couplers and train brakes.

Prominent railroad men are here. The commission will insist that the law be complied with in a reasonable time.

STATE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

Platform Reaffirmed and Bryan Endorsed.

According to the Raleigh correspondent of the Charlotte Observer, the democratic State committee met at the Yarbboro House at 8 o'clock, with a large attendance. Chairman Manly presiding. Several prominent men were invited in, among them C. Watson, Fred Phillips and A. C. Avery. Members from each district made remarks and talked of the situation. The reports were very encouraging.

Speeches continued until midnight. A number of resolutions were submitted. It was decided that resolutions should be adopted. All were referred to a committee of five—Manly, Klutz, Ashe, Winston and Webster—in order that it might prepare suitable resolutions in the nature of an address to the people and submit these to the committee. At midnight this committee returned. The resolutions, it is said, will reaffirm the Chicago platform and refer to Bryan as the leader of the party and declare for white supremacy in North Carolina.

Col. Fred Olds writes:
The reports for the current year to the State Labor Commissioner show that the percentage of tillable land is 52; the average size of farms is 115 acres; average value of improved land $13.48, unimproved $5.52; that 41 per cent of the land in the state is still timbered; that hired laborers on farms are employed on an average of seven months in the year, receiving in summer $7.81 per month, and in winter $7.06. As to the fertility of the soil being maintained, 42 counties report favorably, 18 unfavorably; as to reclamation of land by ditching or terracing 33 report favorably, six unfavorably; as to labor, 33 that it is abundant, 14 that it is scarce; 37 report that laborers can usually find employment all the year, 24 that they cannot; 44 report the educational condition of working people to be improving, 15 that it is not; 42 report their moral condition as improved, while 18 say it is not, 40 report their religious condition as improved, while 19 declare that it is not. Under the head of "accidents to persons" the Hendersonville & Brevard Railroad reports "three hogs, two helpers and one steer" as killed. This report is made to the railroad commission.

THORN PLAYS PINOCCHLE.

And Seems Glad That It Is All Over.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Long Island City, Dec. 1.—Thorn seemed in a better humor today than since the beginning of the trial, playing pinocchle all the time. The story that he confessed while being taken to his cell last night is emphatically denied.

It is now believed that Mrs. Nack will escape the death penalty and get a long term in prison. Thorn's attorneys will make an appeal for a new trial.

PRESIDENT OF UNION PACIFIC.

Clark Declines on Account of Ill Health.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Prominent railroad officials said today that Clark had declined to accept the presidency of the reorganized Union Pacific on account of ill health. It is understood to have been decided that the former president of Northern Pacific, E. W. Winter, will be put in the place. The active head of company will be Marvin Hughitt who became chairman of the board.

CLAIMS HE IS LEGALLY DEAD.

Novel Defense Set Up by Ex-Treasurer Bartley, of Nebraska.

Omaha, Nov. 30.—A novel petition has been filed in the district court by Joseph Bartley, ex-State Treasurer, now under twenty years' sentence for looting the treasury of $500,000.

The petition was an answer to the State's suit in which Bartley is made co-defendant with his bondsmen by the State, in which it seeks to recover the amount stolen.

The petition declares that Bartley cannot be sued, since he is dead, having been sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years. His attorneys declare that under the State law no convict can be sued. If this contention is held the suit against the bondsmen cannot be maintained, since the principal must be sued with or before sureties are sued in Nebraska.

Bloodhounds in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—A pack of bloodhounds will be installed in jail here. The animals are to be brought from Arkansas, where their owner has already achieved considerable success with them as man-hunters.

Chief of Detectives Desmond explains that the hounds are to be brought here as an experiment. They will be used to track escaping prisoners as well as aiding the Police Department. Fully a dozen escapes from jail have occurred in the past two months.

Gladstone's Study of Our Revolution.

London, Nov. 30.—Mr. Gladstone, in acknowledging the gift of a history of the American Revolution, writes that for nearly half a century he has been an admiring student of the American Revolution, and believes that he owes thereto an appreciable part of his own political education.

TROUBLE IN THE FRENCH CABINET

Minister of Justice Resigns in A Buff at Yesterdays Proceeding.

Snow Storm in Chicago.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Mapleville, Ala., Dec. 1.—Three more men died here from drinking a mixture composed of wood alcohol and cheap whiskey. This makes ten deaths within three days from this source and seven more are so seriously ill that they are expected to die within the next twelve hours. The attending physicians have given up hope of their recovery. Two of the men who brought the liquor here are among the dead. The vessel containing the alcohol was labelled "For mixing paints."

MINISTER RESIGNS.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Paris, Dec. 1.—M. Darlan whose demand for the order of the day was rejected by the Senate in yesterday's sitting of that body handed in his resignation at the meeting of the cabinet today.

The ministers did not arrive at any decision as to the resignation of the whole cabinet on account of the Darlan incident but will meet again this evening to consider the question.

SNOW STORM IN CHICAGO.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The coldest weather thus far this fall is prevailing here today. A driving snow storm is raging also.

AID FOR THE KLONDYKE FOLKS.

Cabinet Decides That it Must Wait Until Congress Meets.

Washington, Nov. 30.—The cabinet today considered the subject of sending relief to the people in the Klondyke.

President McKinley received a telegram from the Portland, Ore., chamber of commerce, stating that there was danger of destitution and suffering among the people on the Klondyke, and offering to supply the necessary food for their relief if the government would undertake its transportation.

The information was not definite as to the actual conditions, but was on the same line that has been telegraphed from the northwest. The cabinet considered every phase of the situation, and decided that nothing could be done until congress met when an appropriation will be asked for the purpose of transporting food supplies.

Choked A Catamount to Death.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 30.—Jacob Lewis a resident of Alter street, went hunting this morning in the Swetz valley. While at the foot of the Milnesville Mountain he saw a catamount in a tree. Although his gun was loaded only with bird shot, he blazed away at the beast with both barrels. The fine shot did not seriously wound the cat, and she sprang for him, landing on his neck and shoulders. Lewis dropped his gun and tried to throttle the beast, which he succeeded in doing only after a severe struggle. At last he choked it to death. In the scrimmage he was badly bitten and scratched on the face, arms and neck. He returned home with his prize, which is on exhibition there.

Thorn Must Hang.

New York, Nov. 30.—Martin Thorn was today convicted of murder in the first degree for killing Wm. Gulden-suppe, his predecessor in the affections of Mrs. Augusta Nack, at Woodside, L. I., on June 25th.

At the request of Thorn's counsel the passage of the death sentence was deferred until next Friday morning. Thorn heard the jury men polled on their verdict, and listened to each of them sealing his fate with a nervously uttered "Yes." He gazed at each one of them and appeared to be less impressed with the solemnity of the occasion than any one in the jury box.

A dispatch from Berlin says the government at Washington has intimated to the German government that the United States will not tolerate the annexation or undue punishment of Hayti by Germany.

Facts Worth Studying.

If the Southern Stock-Mutual pays no larger dividends than the 20 per cent. now paid, and the business increases during the next seven years in the same ratio it has increased during the last three years, the actual saving for the ten years to policy-holders in North and South Carolina will be $194,822.00, and to the policy-holders in Greensboro alone, $26,237.00. Besides this the Company's assets (reinsurance reserve and surplus) represented by still larger figures will be kept at home and invested in the state. What better investment can the public make than by upholding an institution like this?

GERMAN ARROGANCE.

Emperor William has been so given to airs ever since his ascension of the throne that it is only when his eccentricities are especially pronounced that he attracts attention. He is regarded with mixed charity and contempt.

This has been a very pleasant, philosophical way of looking at the great modern apostle of the right divine and illustrious defender of the dignity of his pantaloon, but late developments make it more than doubtful whether he will remain merely a harmless imbecile.

The seizure of a Chinese port was the first evidence given that the War Lord was becoming irrepressibly militant. Following close upon the heels of that came the Haytian incident, while our dispatches yesterday gave the purport of his speech to the Reichstag as an emphatic declaration that Germany must have more war ships.

To suppose that all these indications of an offensive policy on the part of Germany are traceable to a half-crazy Emperor, however, is a mistake. There are other influences far deeper seated combining to impel Germany in such a course.

The German military system is, in a measure, on trial. Patient and stolid as he is always, the immense load of the military budget is wearing the endurance of the German tax payer threadbare. For thirty years, almost, the army has had nothing to do. It has been a luxury of imperial pride. Vaguely the tax payer feels that there is something wrong about it all and is growing restive.

There is another and very different reason for this war-like activity. It is the arrogance of Germany as a nation. The German military establishment and the Emperor have reflexively accentuated this undesirable and dangerous quality in each other. Since the Franco-Prussian war Germany has been suffering with a case of swell-head that has at last reached the acute stage. She is not content to be one of the great powers, but would like to be the supreme arbiter in the world's differences.

It is to be hoped that in the Haytian matter President McKinley will find his backbone and stand by the Monroe doctrine. The United States has gone on record and should not flinch one iota from that policy. We do not want war with Germany or any other nation. We want the name of bluffer, however, even less. It is better to fight than to be afraid.

Dr. Joyful Laughter Ramsey, through the medium of his famous mirth-provoking and side-disrupting Zeke Bilkens, comes to the aid of Mr. Marion Butler. Dr. Joyful does well. Zeke, as a funny man, and Butler, as a statesman, are a pair too well matched to dwell apart. Let them be embalmed together as mementoes of that epoch in the state's history which has been marked by the predominance of the asinine and the canine. Exeunt Zeke and Marion.

The Ohio populists will wish for Mark Hanna a speedy return to health and a fresh campaign.

Of the irrepressible vulgarity of American commercialism the destruction of the palisades on the Hudson is an excellent instance. What is the magnificent bit of natural scenery as compared with the cobble stones and building material that the palisades will make? Why, through a fraudulent contract for street paving, the material gotten from the wrecked palisades might add another millionaire to the list and swell the "American aristocracy" with another "famby." Let the palisades be blasted! In view of a "consummation so devoutly to be wished for" the aesthetic pleasure of the present and future generations is not worth a moment's consideration. What were the palisades made for if not to be broken up and used?

Secretary Wilson has been giving advice to Southern farmers in an address to the Georgia legislature. The annual distribution of onion and cabbage seed, will take place after the next session of Congress.

General Nelson A. Miles has been participating in the presentation of a flag to the boy's high school in Philadelphia. For that martial function General Miles' military attainments peculiarly fit him.

The Colorado man who has been seized with an insane desire to burn his wife since reading the Luetgert trial was perhaps a model husband before only because he lacked imagination.

A contemporary announces in bold headlines that many new stars have been discovered. This reference is to the stars that twinkle, twinkle and not to the variety that bedims the footlights.

In acquiring an asphalt lake Governor Pingree is suspected of a surreptitious attempt to swap off Potato Pingree for Paver Pingree or some other appellation "equally as good."

The six hundred pound woman who died the other day must have read that needle's eye passage with some trepidation.

Whatever Martin Thorne's virtues as a murderer may have been as a witness for the defense he has seldom been equalled.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alternative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

This is to Certify that a few years since, while living in a malarial district, I suffered dreadfully with chills, which it seemed impossible to break. A friend urged me to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I did so, and by the use of a few bottles they were entirely broken broken, and I have not been troubled with them since. I also found it an excellent nerve.

In Sokotra.

The population of the island is made up of several races. On the coast one finds a mongrel blend of Arabs and negroes. Among the mountains the villagers are Bedonin pure and simple, with chocolate colored skins and handsome features. But, taken as a whole, the inhabitants of Sokotra do not impress one favorably. They are extremely greedy, and "robbeah" is a word scarcely ever out of their mouths. The rupee has ousted the old Maria Theresa dollar from this island, as from other oriental countries, but the islanders are not yet accustomed to the use of the smaller Indian currency, and often looked askance at the 2 anna pieces we offered them for milk or butter. Only once during our stay did we meet with any real generosity or hospitality, and that was from an alien, a merchant of Muscat.

Woe to the unhappy traveler whose money gave out in Sokotra, or to the still more hapless mariner cast upon these shores without any possessions. The sultan, it is true, receives £90 a year from the British government and is required by treaty to befriend Englishmen who may be wrecked on this coast, but the abominable treatment we received at the hands of this mean and avaricious ruler would not lead one to expect much in the way of generosity toward poor or penniless outcasts. When we wished to leave the island before the change of the monsoon had cut off all possibility of such a thing, the sultan prevented any boat from making a bargain with us, in order to force us to employ his own dhow, for the hire of which he demanded the outrageous sum of £120. We ultimately secured the wretched buggalow for £50, an extortionate price.—Longman's Magazine.

St. Andrew's by Wardrobe.

The tiny churchyard of St. Andrews-by-Wardrobe has many associations. It is even Shakespearean. In his last will the poet left a house in the parish to his daughter, Susanah Hall, "situate, lying and being in Blackfriars, in London, nere the Wardrobe." "But why Wardrobe?" will be asked by such as remember Betsy Trotwood's "Why Rookery?" In a palace built in the fourteenth century by Sir John Beauchamp, the same house was in St. Paul's churchyard became the resort of the dinnerless, who believed it to be that of the good Duke Humphrey, Edward III deposited all the old court clothes. The exhibition was a sort of sartorial library, as somebody has remarked. Now its site over against the northeast corner of the church is covered by Wardrobe Chambers. In the churchyard lie two of "Vandyke's men," and his daughter was baptized there, so there are artistic as well as poetic associations. Indeed, Faithorn, the engraver, was buried there. An old epitaph is preserved in Maitland, but no trace of it is now to be found:

When God was pleased (the world unwilling) Hellas James to Nature paid his debt,
And here he reposes: as he lived he dy'd,
The saying in him strongly verified.
Such life, such death, then a long truth to tell,
He lived a godly life and dy'd as well.
Hellas James was evidently of those whose hand is subdued to what it works in.—Westminster Gazette.

Silas In New York.

A figure that was for a time familiar in up town streets has now appeared down town. It is that of a man in the garb of a countryman carrying an old fashioned valise, upon which an advertisement is painted. Up town he returned at intervals to the shore he came from, looked up at the sign over the door and then walked in, to start out again presently on another round.

Down town he carries two valises, a small, flat valise of the alligator mouth kind, upon the side of which is marked the name "Silas." The other, a big, square, glazed valise, bears the name and announcement of a down town hotel.

Silas, wearing clothes from way back, his trousers tucked in his boots, and a red bandanna around his neck, smooth faced and wearing spectacles, and with a look of profound innocence upon his countenance, wanders about through the busy streets in the lower part of the city. He attracts attention, and that is his business. Incidentally he adds one to the many odd, picturesque and interesting features of the city's varied show.—New York Sun.

Eggs May Be Kept Fresh For Months.
"It is impossible in some sections of the country to get perfectly fresh eggs during the winter season," says Mrs. S. T. Rorer in 'The Ladies' Home Journal.' "To guard against this, in summer time, when they are cheap, pack them in lime water, and they will keep in good condition for three months. Pour one gallon of boiling water over a pound of lime; when settled and cold, pour it carefully over the eggs which you have packed, small ends down, in a stone jar, and stand in a cool, dark place. Eggs may also be packed in salt; anything that will close the pores of the shell and prevent evaporation will preserve eggs."

Well Matched.

"I'm a plain, everyday business man," said Meritt, "and am nothing if not practical. Miss Wisely, will you be my wife?"

"I admire your frankness, Mr. Meritt," replied the fair object of his affections, "because I am inclined to be rather matter of fact myself. How much are you worth?"—Chicago News.

Family Compliments.

"You're no longer a spring chicken," sneered the angry husband.
"But you're the same old goose," came the answer with a snap.—Detroit Free Press.

Experts have come to the conclusion that what kills trees in London is not the soot flakes nor the want of air nor the drought, but the sewer gas, which attacks the roots, so that the tree soon withers and dies.

New Products of Wood.

It is not generally known that over 60 per cent of wood may be converted into liquid. The strongest hydraulic pressure would not squeeze one-half of 1 per cent of moisture from dry wood, but by putting the same material into an iron retort and converting it into charcoal by means of heat the gases and smoke, to the extent of fully 65 per cent of the weight of the wood, may be condensed into a liquid called pyroligneous acid, and from it are obtained wood alcohol, acetate of lime and wood tars. A cord of wood weighing 4,000 pounds produces about 3,650 pounds of pyroligneous acid and 700 pounds of charcoal. The pyro-lignous acid from one cord of wood produces 9 gallons of 82 per cent crude wood alcohol, 200 pounds of tar, besides 35 bushels of charcoal. After the pyro-lignous acid is neutralized with lime the wood alcohol is distilled off, the lime holding the acetic acid in solution.
After the separation of the wood spirit the remaining liquid is boiled down in open pans to a sugar, which is dried, and becomes the acetate of lime of commerce. Acetate of lime is used for making acetic acid. Fully three-fifths of all the wood alcohol and acetate of lime produced in the world are made in the United States. Fully 15,000 acres per year are cleared for this purpose. Wood alcohol affords a perfect substitute for grain alcohol for manufacturing and mechanical purposes and at less than one-third the cost. It is used principally as a solvent in the making of shellac varnish, in making celluloid, photographic paper, etc. It makes many beautiful dye tints. It is antiseptic and much used for liniments and for skin rubbing in bathhouses.—New York Ledger.

When Man Is Dangerous.

It is a singular fact, yet one substantiated by statistics, that most crime is committed in New York by men 29 years old. This is not only true of the lesser, but also of the greater crimes, although a man is presumed to be at that period of his life not only in the zenith of his physical powers, but also in full and complete possession of his mental strength, with a complete appreciation of right and wrong and their respective consequences. This condition is a problem which has not been solved by the student of criminology, and one which is made the more complex by the fact that the ages of 21, 27 and 45 years nearly equal it, with the intervening years showing a far less percentage of crime.

It is indeed peculiar that the criminal tendency should be so strong at 29, with no such inclination, so far as criminal statistics show, in as great a degree for the succeeding 16 years and then another outburst of the animal in man.

This condition is found to be true by actual figures, and as all statistical computations at which average conditions are sought to be determined are arrived at by this method, so may the student of this subject as well as the insurance magnate who bases his rates on the general average of losses in proportion to the risks taken, and does so with full safety, employ it in solving the problem before him.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Manifest Destiny.

"Charley!" exclaimed young Mrs.
Torkins.

"What is it?" inquired her husband,
as the newspaper slid from his startled grasp.

"I have thought it all out."

"I don't know what you are talking about."

"The baby's future. You know how important it is to watch a child and see what his bent is, so that you can get him started on the right road in life."

"Yes, but isn't our baby rather young?"

"The younger the better. There is no telling how early character may begin to be molded. You may thank me for taking a great responsibility off your mind. You needn't worry about his avocation any more."

"And what, may I inquire, do you propose to make of him?"

"A grand opera singer."

"You're going to let him go on the stage?"

"I think that when nature especially fits any person for some particular calling it is dangerous and wrong to compel him to do something else."

"How do you know he is fitted for grand opera?"

"Because every time he opens his mouth he yells at the top of his voice and you can't understand a word he says."—Washington Star.

Gems of the Apostles.

One would think the 12 apostles were rich gentlemen, judging by the freedom with which the ancients assigned them emblems in the way of precious stones.
Thus Peter, the Rock, was represented by the hard jasper. Andrew was given the blue sapphire as the emblem of heavenly faith. Bartholomew, the martyr, was assigned the blood red carnelian;
James, the affectionate, the white chal-cedon, and the gentle, loving John the emerald. With the same view to fitness, James the younger was assigned the topaz, and the enthusiastic and energetic Matthew the amethyst, while the chrysolite was the emblem of Matthias;
the beryl, Thomas; the chrysoprase, Thaddeus; and the pink hyacinth, Simeon of Cana. To the present day the emblem of Matthew is the sacred stone or naming cross and pastoral ring of the Roman Catholics.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Cattle of Arbelia.

Arbelia, which gave its name to the third great battle between Alexander and Darius, is a town in the Turkish jyllayet of Kurdistan, on the caravan route between Bagdad and Mosul, about 40 miles southeast of the latter city.
The battle, however, was not really fought at Arbelia, but at a place 80 miles distant, then called Gangamela, now Karmelja.

WILLIS NOT BURNED ALIVE.

Negro Murderer of Young Stephens Is Safe in Horry County, S. C. Jail.

Wilmington, N. C. Nov. 29.—The report that Nathan Willis, colored, the murderer of a young white man named Stephens, was lynched by burning, was not correct. It was published by both morning papers herein good faith, being furnished as a special telegram from Southport. Willis is safely lodged in the Horry, S. C., jail at Conway.

Several of the party of men who were with officers when they arrested Williams were eager to execute summary punishment upon him and the feeling of the community where the cold-blooded crime was committed was most intense. It was this probably that gave rise to the rumor that he was lynched.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller
I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for consumption, coughs and colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr.
King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free

DEAR LITTLE DEER AT DANIEL'S.
It is the Prettiest and the Cutest Thing in Town.

Down at the sporting goods establishment of Garland Daniel today there is one of the prettiest and most friendly little deer in the world. It is beautifully dappled and arrived by express from Tallahassee, Florida, yesterday. There were two alligators came with the deer but the alligators were not retained and thereby hangs a story. But it is not our business to tell the story. Daniel is fitting up quarters in one of his big show windows for the little beauty and it held a reception there all morning, licking the hand of each caller in token of hearty welcome. The only danger is that the fawn may be fed too much sugar. Daniel is very proud of his deer and has a right to be. It is bound to bring good luck.

The city fathers met last night, as usual, but just as solemn deliberations began the fire bell rang and the locomotive at the depot blew itself and the alderman adjourned to go to the scene of conflagration. The scene did not conflagrate, but the aldermen could not help that. The regular business will be transacted tomorrow night.

TWENTY-NINE YEARS AGO

The Jewelry Business of W. B. Farrar & Son Was Established.

It looks like Christmas in W. B. Farrar & Son's store now-a-days. One difference in this elegant place and the "Crystal Maze" is that at Farrar's you don't get lost. As you enter the door you are greeted in front and on the right and left by a beautiful and dazzling array of all kinds of goods usually seen in first-class jewelry stores, and some you do not usually see.

Take a look at the right hand show window and you will see a beautiful and elegant line of novelties, such as manicule sets, shoe hooks, salve boxes, and pendants with jeweled tops, puff boxes, silver mounted comb and brush sets, scissors, baby rattles, etc. We will not undertake to enumerate further. If you will call on them and take a look it will be apparent that an attempt at enumeration would be folly. The show cases are filled with jewelry, gold and silver novelties in pretty and artistic display. Clocks, cut glass and china goods form a part of the many attractions.

This firm is one of Greensboro's oldest and most reliable, having been established in 1868, twenty-nine years ago. By faithful service, good work, square dealing and good goods they have grown with the town and now easily rank with the foremost watch-makers and jewelers of North Carolina.
